HelpSchedule makes it easy to schedule volunteers on the web. How Does It Work?

The person coordinating the volunteer work creates a schedule on the web site. Volunteers look on the web site to see dates when help is needed and then sign up for the date they want. Everyone can see the schedule and knows who signed up to help each day. The sample screen at the left shows a few of the features:

1. Each schedule has a personalized web page including your custom name for the schedule.
2. The coordinator of the schedule can provide instructions to volunteers.
3. The coordinator of the schedule can provide a phone number and e-mail address so volunteers can contact them with questions.
4. Volunteers can sign up for an available time slot with one click on the hand icon or '(open)' link.
5. A volunteer can enter a note about their appointment.
6. The volunteer and schedule coordinator can view and change the appointment as needed.
